NAVY WINGS

Fleet Air Arm - Charity Clay Pigeon Shoot

This popular event at Purdey at the Royal Berkshire, one of the premier shooting schools in the country, is a top day out not to be missed! In its fifth year, the event helps to raise vital funds to support the work of the Charity Navy Wings, restoring and flying a unique collection of historic naval aircraft on behalf of the Nation.

Even if you haven't shot before, the day is spectacular fun and the instructors are the best in the business, and for the experienced shot there are plenty of challenges to test your marksmanship and up your game.

The day is all-inclusive with breakfast, shooting, refreshments in the field, champagne reception, heritage fly past and highly sociable lunch in the ticket price. This is a fantastic opportunity to get a team of friends together for an exceptional day of sportsmanship, banter and a shared love of old aeroplanes.

- Teams of Four £1,800
- Individual Gun £450
- Non-Shooting Guests £175

Navy Wings relies on public donations to support its work in restoring and flying an unequalled collection of rare and historically significant naval aircraft, inspiring future generations. The aircraft represent the history of naval flying from 1909 to the Fleet Air Arm of today and are a unique part of our national heritage.

Thank you for your support.
